NowSecure Academy is an online self-service platform for architects, developers, QA and security professionals to learn new mobile application security skills, enable use of the NowSecure product portfolio and earn security certificates to advance their careers.

With expert-led curated content designed to sharpen security skills, NowSecure Academy instills best practices for secure mobile app development. NowSecure Academy also offers mobile-specific security courses to help security pros with existing web or network security skills quickly get up to speed on testing mobile app security.

The NowSecure Academy extensive library of mobile appsec-focused courses targets stakeholders at every skill level between a security novice and expert. Upskilling improves team performance, strengthens cross-team alignment, decreases coding errors, eliminates testing time and reduces overall dev and testing costs.

NowSecure Academy seeks to fill the mobile cybersecurity skills gap by providing self-service training and resources with options for customized training hosted by NowSecure experts. Closing this gap empowers teams to ship more secure mobile applications faster.

NowSecure Academy Upskills Your Team to Speed the Delivery of Secure Mobile Apps

Free Mobile App Security Courses for the Community

NowSecure Academy offers several training courses for all stakeholders on your team to help plug the cybersecurity skills gap. These courses will equip any developer with a foundation for writing secure mobile apps and any security analyst with mobile-specific security expertise. The free NowSecure Academy courses provide a great way for teams to launch mobile appsec training initiatives and grow mobile appsec programs.

Expert-Led Online Mobile AppSec Certificates

NowSecure Academy provides certificates of completion for certain courses, including digital badges for employee LinkedIn bios. Developers and security professionals can use these certificates to prove to employers that they make security a priority and for career advancement. Teams can set requirements around certificates in order to improve overall security skills and awareness.

Self-Service Training Modules for NowSecure Products

Whether teams are new to NowSecure products or are expert NowSecure Platform and NowSecure Workstation users, NowSecure Academy training modules help hone their skills. The on-demand courses provide teams with a fast and easy way to onboard new security analysts and developers and teach them the basics to get up and running quickly. For those who are familiar with the NowSecure portfolio, advanced-level product training modules ensure teams get the most value out of our solutions by imparting knowledge about more complicated testing features and complex use cases.

Customized In-Person and Live Virtual Security Trainings

NowSecure also delivers customized courses for organizations that seek to provide more in-depth mobile security training. While NowSecure Academy offers a fantastic way for teams to start leveling up their secure mobile development skills, tuning training to an organization's specific needs provides the greatest contextual, relevant and thorough secure coding best practices, security strategies and remediation tactics. Lessons are offered in live and recorded formats and include archived video for sharing internally.

Identify and Cultivate Security Champions

As development best practices continue to evolve, security champions proliferate. A security champion is a security-minded developer who ensures that security is built into the development process. Cultivating security champions helps organizations achieve faster delivery of more secure applications. NowSecure Academy enables organizations to create new security champions within teams through training and certificates while empowering existing security champions with new skills and knowledge.
